TANIN KIN.

DR. WATTS' SECOND CATECHISM FOR CHILDREN,

IN THE DAKOTA LANGUAGE.

BOSTON:

PRINTED FOR THE AMERICAN BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS FOR FOREIGN MISSIONS, BY CROCKER AND BREWSTER.

1837.

SOUNDS OF THE LETTERS.

A is sounded as a in man, father. E, as e in men, there. I, as i in field, fig. O, as o in go, so. U, like oo in mood, good.

When two vowels come together, both are sounded, making two syllables, and the vowels appear to retain the same uniform sound, except when followed by w or y, in which places a and u alter their sounds a little.

C sounds as ch in chin, chair.

This mark ' before c and t marks a sound which is joined with those and some other consonants, which cannot be described. Q is used to express this sound joined with k, and might have been written 'k.

G expresses a sound which seems like gh or kh brought close together and neither sounded perfectly. It is a rough guttural, not heard in English or French, but said closely to resemble the German R. g̃ is sounded like g in bag, hog.

J has the sound of the French j, or of s in pleasure.

R is used for a sound not heard in English or French, but said to resemble the German ch.

X has the sound of sh in shine, mash.

The other letters sound as in English, except n final, which sounds like the French n at the end of a syllable, or like n in ankle, antler, tinkle, and if b or p follow, like m in hamper; but n at the beginning of a syllable, or at the end, if marked thus, (n̄) is sounded as in no, pen.
